Your Support is Needed!

Lauded by "American Theatre" magazine and visited by some of the U.S.'s leading playwrights, Al-Rowwad Children's Center in Aida Refugee Camp in Palestine's West Bank is an inspiring home of children's creativity and expression amid war and occupation. In order to bring this remarkable tour to New York City, community support is imperative. Please contribute today to ensure the art and the voices of the Children of the Camps are seen and heard in New York City this June!

What can you do?

- Donate meals for the troupe during their visit (10 children, 3 adults)
- Make a direct financial contribution (Tax-deductible checks made out to "The Peace and Justice Foundation")
- Attend one of their New York-area performances
- Donate a service or item to a silent auction to benefit the tour
